

Raziyeh Mosayebi is currently working at the cognitive science technology Center of TAKTA Corporation. She received her Bs.c and Ms.c. degree in Electrical Engineering from Amirkabir University of Technology, Tehran, Iran in 2011 and 2013, respectively. She then joined the biomedical Engineering department at University of Tehran in 2014 as a Ph.D. student. Her main focus is on signal processing methods and has published some papers in international scientific journals. She is currently working on signal processing tools for fusion of EEG and fMRI data, neuro-feedback and neuro-marketing. She is also working on radar, sonar and speech signal processing and is the head of signal processing group at Searough Company.